Make a Character for Yourself. "Gris," the Fat Contributor of the Cincinnati Times, not satisfied with his aboriginal character, attempts to con struct a new one with the help of a wheel barrow. Here follows an account

"It is related of Girard that when a young tradesman, having bought and paid for a bag of coffee, proceeded to wheel it home bimself, the shrewd old merchant immediately offered to trust his new customer to as many bags as the latter might desire. The trait of character revealed by the young man in being his own porter, had given the millionaire confidence in him at once. His reputation was made with Girard. He became a favored dealer with , the euter prising merchant, throve rapidly, and in the end made a fortune."—Exchange.

That sort of thing might have worked well with old Girard, but it dou't fool anybody now. I have tried it. I bought half a pound of tea at Pendery's the other day, after reading the above paragraph, and wheeled it home in the most ostentatious manner, to see if Pendery, who was looking, wouldn't offer to trust me for all the tea I wanted, but he didn't. On the contrary, I heard him speak up sharp to a clerk as I went bround the

I afterward took a wheel-barrow and went to a flour store on Central avenue. Bought a small bag of flour, twenty five pounds, I think, and louded it on. The ead of the concern was looking at me ith apparent interest.
